

Global Strategy Journal

Code of Ethics

The Global Strategy Journal (GSJ) holds to the “Guidelines for Professional Conduct” developed by the Strategic Management Society

<https://www.strategicmanagement.net/media/download/conferences/home/governance/bylaws-articles/leftColumn/additional-governing-docs/professional-conduct/file>

See in particular, Point 10 “EDITORIAL AND REVIEW PROCESS”

The following statement by the co-editors of the GSJ reinforces the SMS guidelines

The Global Strategy Journal strives to uphold the highest ethical standards in academic publishing.

1. Reviews: Our co-editors, associate editors, and editorial board members seek to provide timely, open-minded, and constructive feedback to authors of submitted manuscripts.
2. Conflict of interest: Co-editors, associate editors, and editorial board members will not knowingly handle manuscripts that involve a conflict of interest with authors.
3. Plagiarism: GSJ will not knowingly publish plagiarized research, including that involving self-plagiarism. GSJ seeks to avoid self-plagiarism by asking authors of submitted manuscripts to cite all of their prior relevant research and disclose any overlap in data with their prior work.
4. Data use: GSJ welcomes continuing development of new research from a database, but any new work must complement other research that uses the data.
5. Unique submission: Authors also may not submit a manuscript for consideration by GSJ that is under review at another journal.

More generally, GSJ requires that authors act ethically, including by appropriately citing prior research and accurately reporting data sources, procedures, and results.