

STRATEGIC ENTREPRENEURSHIP JOURNAL Call for Special Issue Proposal Submissions

Submission Due Date: July 15, 2021

The Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal invites proposal submissions for a Special Issue of the journal. We encourage proposals that seek to (re-)shape important research conversations in our field or open up entirely new ones. The proposal document should include the following:

1. Potential guest editors and their CVs (as well as a link to their websites, if available).
2. Proposed special issue theme.
3. Description of theme (up to two pages).
  - a. Relevance and importance to the SEJ readership.
  - b. Potential research questions.
  - c. How this (re-)shapes important research conversations or opens up new ones.
  - d. Plan for distributing the Call for Papers and publicizing the Special Issue.

Historically, the process has been highly competitive, as SEJ can accommodate only a handful of Special Issues for the next 2-3 years. Accordingly, the Co-Editors of the journal will review the proposal submissions after the deadline and invite a subset of these for further consideration and development of the Call for Papers. The final evaluation of each SI proposal will take into consideration criteria regarding the theme (i.e., fit with SEJ topical domains and priorities, as well as breadth and scope of the target audience) and the SI editorial team (i.e., editorial experience, capabilities, and reputation).

By way of background, here are the SEJ Special Issues that are currently in production or have been published over the past five years:
